

Whooping Crane Chicks Doing OK Without Names

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Two awkward chicks face years without a name unless man learns more about sex.

The chicks are the Audubon Park Zoo's baby whooping cranes who, at 56 and 52 days old are the oldest whoopers ever born in captivity. The youngsters' big problem is that humans don't know the difference between a male and a female whooper.

"How can we give them names when we don't know what they are?" asked the park superintendent, George Douglass.

Douglas, however, has a theory that may help. All of the five-foot-tall whooping cranes left in the world (less than 30) have a white body and brilliant red head. Behind the red is a black smudge.

When that smudge is just a mottled black spot, Douglass believes, the bird is a female; when the spot is a thick black triangle, the whooper is a male.

House Bill Would Grant Permanent Authority To Three Alaska Airlines

WASHINGTON (AP)—The House passed and sent to the Senate yesterday a bill to authorize permanent operating rights for airlines now flying between the States and Alaska on temporary certification.

The bill affects routes of these three carriers:

Alaska Airlines, from Portland, Ore., and Seattle-Tacoma to Fairbanks;

Northwest Airlines, from Minneapolis to Anchorage via Edmonton, Alberta;

Pacific Northern Airlines from Portland and Seattle-Tacoma to Anchorage via Ketchikan, Juneau, Yakutat and Cordova.

Girard Doesn't Mind Trial by Japanese Court

CAMP WHITTINGTON, Japan, (AP)—William Girard indicated today he doesn't dread a Japanese trial as much as members of his family back home in Ottawa, Ill. He expressed confidence the Japanese court would acquit him on charges of causing the death of a Japanese woman on a military firing range.

The 21-year-old Army specialist issued a statement to newsmen a few hours after the U.S. Supreme Court upheld the government's decision to turn him over to Japan for trial.

Asked whether he had any difference of opinion with his brother, Louis in Ottawa on the jurisdictional fight waged in the case, William replied "I don't think so."

Later he add, "My brother has never been in Japan and he doesn't think the way I do."

Girard was asked if he thought he needed any more help from his American lawyers. He replied he didn't think so, "It looks to me like they've done all they can do."

Asked whether he thought the court fight to have him brought back to the United States was worthwhile, he said:

"Yes, with all them people back there fighting for me."

Then he added: "I was following orders from my brother. How I felt about it didn't make any difference."
